

THE THEATRE OF WAR in NORTH AMERICA, with the ROADS and A TABLE OF THE DISTANCES

A Compendious Account of the BRITISH COLONIES in NORTH-AMERICA.

GOVERNMENT OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

BY the Proclamation of the 17th of October, 1763, this government includes, 1. The life of Newfoundland and all the islands adjacent to its coasts, except those of Magdalen and St. Peter's, which are left in the possession of the French; 2. The Isles of Anticosti and Magdalen, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence; 3. All the coast of Labrador, from St. John's River to Hudson's Straits. The soil of this government is barren, but the sea is an inexhaustible mine of treasure, and its coasts are full of harbours, very safe and commodious for the fishery. The chief town is St. John's, on the south-east part of Newfoundland.

CANADA, OR THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

By the Royal Proclamation of the 7th of October, 1763, this province is bounded on the East by the River St. John, and from thence, by a Line drawn from the head of that river, through Lake St. John, to the fourth end of Lake Nipissing; from whence the said Line, crossing the river St. Laurence and lake Champlain, in the 45th parallel north latitude, passes along the high lands which divide the waters of the said river St. Laurence from those of the River Saguenay, and also along the north coast of the Baye des Chaleurs, and the coast of the Gulf of St. Laurence, to Cape Rovers, and from thence following the mouth of the river St. Laurence, by the west end of the island of Anticosti, terminates at the aforesaid river St. John. An Act of Parliament, passed in 1774, has removed the northern and western boundaries of this Province, so as to include all the lands comprised between the northern boundary of New-York, the western line of Pennsylvania, the Ohio, the Mississippi, and the four boundaries of Hudson's Bay Company.—The Towns of note are Quebec, Montreal, and Trois Rivieres. Quebec, which is a city and the capital of the whole province, is a fortified place, situated at the mouth of the river St. Laurence, where it discharges itself into the sea. This Town, well built of stone, and contains 19,400 souls, is one of the most important cities in North America.—Montreal is built on a fruitful island of the same name, in the river St. Laurence, 60 leagues south-west of Quebec; it is also divided into an Upper and Lower Town, well-built, and populous. Near Montreal, on the river Richelieu, are two forts, Chambly and Sorel, taken by the British in 1760. The distance from Montreal to Quebec is 180 leagues; it is much frequented by several nations of Indians, for the purpose of trading; and there is a very good foundry in its neighbourhood.—Lakes: The five principal, which communicate with the river St. Laurence, are Lakes Superior, 500 leagues in circuit; the Lakes Ontario, Erie or Oswego, Huron, and Michigan; all of which are vessels of fine size, and afford a passage to the sea. There are besides many smaller lakes, such as the Lac de Beauport, near the city of Niagara. The stream is about a mile wide, divided by a rocky island in the form of a ball-moon. The perpendicular height is 148 feet; and the noise may be heard upwards of fifty miles.—The chief River is that of St. Laurence, navigable from the sea to Montreal; it receives the rivers Saguenay, Richelieu, Ottawa, and others. At Cape Rovers, the most remarkable Cape of the Province of Quebec, and of the Gulf of St. Laurence.

NOVA-SCOTIA,

is bounded on the N. by Florida, E. Gulf of St. Lawrence, S. Atlantic Ocean, W. New England. The chief town in Nova-Scotia is Halifax, founded in 1749, by an embarkation of near 4000 families. It is situated on Chatham Bay, where there is one of the finest harbours in the world, capable of containing 1000 ships in security, and very commodious for the trade. Queen Anne's Harbour, which is in fact as Halifax, has the disadvantage of a very difficult entrance—Lunenburg, a small town to the west of Halifax; Canso, another little town to the eastward. Cape Sable, the most southern point of the province, Sumbel, Canada—Barrs, the great town of New Brunswick, and Miramichi, the chief town of the Gulf of St. Lawrence; Rigolet, the northernmost town of the Gulf; Rigolet, Nipigicut, St. John's, and river St. Croix, which divides the province from New-England. By the Royal Proclamation of 1763, the titles of Cape Breton and St. John's, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, are annexed to the government of Nova-Scotia. The territory, where the French had the fortress of Louisbourg, is now a part of the English Empire. It has a fruitful soil, and several good harbours; its chief place is Charlotte-town.

NEW-ENGLAND,

It is bounded on the E. by va-Scotia, E. and S. by the Atlantic Ocean, W. New-York, N. Canada,—Boltin, its metropolis, is situated upon a peninsula, joined to the continent by a neck of land, about half a mile long, 60 yards broad, where General Gage erected fortification. The town, which stands upon a hill, is a fine city, 12 miles in length, and half a mile in breadth; it contained about 3000 good houses, forming (perhaps) 12000 families, and near 18 or 20000 inhabitants; and was divided into 12 wards, each of which kept a company of men. At the bottom of the harbour is a noble island, called the Broomfield, which is a fine garden, and is the seat of a noble family, called the Brewsters, at the entrance of the harbour; has also a castle on another island 12 miles from the town.—Cambridge has no regular fleets, but is remarkable for Harvard College, now turned into barracks for the Provincial soldiers. The Rev. Mr. John Johnson, who is now at the head of the college, has been a long time in the service of the province, and is called Stoughton Hall of these contents the university.—New-England consists of the four following Provinces: NEW-HAMPSHIRE, MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, RHODE-ISLAND, CONNECTICUT.—New-Hampshire, though laid out in townships, is not formed into counties, nor are there as yet few counties in the province.—Massachusetts Bay contains the following counties and towns: York (formerly the Province of Maine): York, Kittery, Wells, Biddeford, Falmouth, Yarmouth, Brunswick; with several forts: Salem, Marblehead, Lynn, Andover, Braintree, Haverhill, Methuen, Newbury, and Boston (near by the city of Boston). Middlesex: Boston, Roxbury, Cambridge, and Cambridge Town (near by the city of Boston). Suffolk: King's troops, June 17, 1775). NEW YORK.

is bounded N. by Canada, E. by New-England, S. Atlantic Ocean, and New Jersey, W. and N.W. by Pennsylvania and Canada, Counties and Towns; New York: New York (the capital of the province)—Clarkstown, the seat of government, bordering upon the Iroquois—Albany: Albany (an incorporated city, which carries a great trade with the Indians); Schoenectady, or Schoenectady (an incorporated town)—Utrecht—Dutchess: Orange—Westchester: Westchester (an incorporated town), Rye, Ellicottville, The city of New-York is situated on the fourth point of Manhattan Island, formed by Hudson's River, which divides the city into two parts, the city of New-York, and the city of Albany, which is a fine product of waters, the Jersey, Long and Staten Islands, etc. and contains near 3000 houses, divided into seven wards, and above 12,000 inhabitants. 1. The Broadway-street full of the houses have a row of trees before them; the generality of the other streets are narrow. One inconvenience is, the inhabitants being obliged to fetch their water from springs at a distance of several miles from the city. 2. The city of New-York is situated on the fourth point of Manhattan Island and Staten Island; the first lies in length from East to West about six miles, and the second about 12 broad; it is divided into three counties, viz. King's, Queen's, and Suffolk, and has no town of note. Staten Island, which makes one county, lies to the west of Long Island. Amongst the fortresses of the province are, Fortsondon on Lake George, and Crown Point, the latter extremely of late campaign, now in the hands of the Province; Fort Mifflin, on the Hudson's River, and Fort Mifflin, on the Hudson's River, and Fort Mifflin, on the Hudson's River; through the latter, about 80 yards wide, it is extremely dangerous sailing, on account of the different rapid currents; and for a vessel gets into any but the right one, it inevitably runs on a shoal of rocks on one side, or is whirled round and swallowed up by a dreadful vortex on the other—Rye: Hudson's or the North River (which runs through the city of New-York, and is bounded by the Jersey, and Jersey). On the Mohawk is a large current, called the Coho, whose perpendicular height is 70 feet.

NEW JERSEY, DIVIDED INTO EAST AND WEST

It bounded on the N. by York River, E. Atlantic Ocean, W. and S. W. Delaware River and Bay.—The counties and towns in the East District are, Middle: Perth-Amboy, N. Brunswick, Woodbridge; Mainland: Freehold, Eggie; Elizabeth, Newburg—Somerset: Bergen;—Counties and towns in the West District: Burlington: Burlington, Marlborough, Middletown, Newark, Orange, Salem, Sussex, Warren, Zionsville; Cape May: Cape May, Morris; Surfer: Surfer, the principal town of the East Jersey, is delightfully situated on a neck of land, included between the rivers Raritan and Arthur and a large open bay.—Burlington, the chief town of the county, is one of the most beautiful cities in America, and is situated on the banks of the river Raritan and the diurnal Provincial or Supreme Court sit respectively.—Brunswick is remarkable for the number of its beautiful women. In this town, which is nearly the center of the Rail and West Jersey, there was established, in 1796, a Female Seminary, under the patronage of the American Board of Christian Education, connected with the University of England.—Cape May is the chief Cape, a the entrance of Delaware Bay; Perth-Amboy the chief harbour; Delaware, Rariton, and Palaic, the principal Rivers.

PENNSYLVANIA, TOGETHER WITH THE COUNTIES ON DELAWARE.

Is bounded on the N. by part of New York. E. Delaware River, dividing it from New Jersey. S. Maryland. W. partly by Virginia, and partly by Canada. The counties and towns are, Philadelphia: Philadelphia, Germantown, DUBLIN, Frank-fort, Chelster; Chester: Indi; Newtown, Brilol; Berks; Reading: Northingam; Easton: Lancaster; Lancaster, a town of 600 houses; Town; York; York; York; Carlisle, a town of 500 houses; Bell; Delaware; Newcastle; Newcastle; Ches; Dover; Sussex; Lewes. The city of Philadelphia was planned by the exalted and benevolent genius of the famous William Penn. It is situated on a tongue of land, very near the confluence of the Delaware and Schuylkill Rivers, contains 300 houses and 18 or 20,000 inhabitants; it is diffused in the form of an oblong, designed to extend two miles from river to river. The streets are laid out in parallel lines, intersected by others at right angles, and are handsomely built, well lighted, and watched; a pavement of broad stones runs along each side for foot-passengers. The Quays are spacious and fine, the principal one is 300 feet wide, and to this a vessel of 500 tons may lay her broad-side.—Cape Hinlopen is the principal Cape of Pennsylvania, at the entrance of Delaware-Bay.—The chief Rivers are, the Delaware, Susquehanna, and Schuikill.

M A R Y L A N D,

It bounded on the N. by Pennsylvania, E. Counties of Delaware and Atlantic Ocean, W. and W. by the Patowmack River, which separates the Province from Virginia. Its Counties and towns are, in the East, Prince George's, Worcester; Prince Anne—Smyth; Snow-hill—Dorchester; Dorset or Dorchester—Talbot; Oxford—St. George's—Anne's; Queen's Town—Kent; Chelster; Counties and Towns in the West Division; St. Mary's, St. Mary's, Charles; Britton—Prince George; Mallettsville—Calvert; Annapolis—Arundel; Annapolis, Baltimore. Frederick—Annapolis, the capital, is a small neat town, of 500 houses; the streets are irregular, and not paved. It is situated on the banks of the Chesapeake Bay, and is the seat of the Government, and the principal port of Chesapeake Bay, and of the Eastern shore beyond it. The chief river, which is navigable, is Patowmack, which includes many creeks, which afford the Province great commercial advantages by the convenience of inland navigation.

E O R G I A.

It is bounded on the E. and E. by the Savannah River, which divides it from South Carolina by the Atlantic 1° 30' N. by the E. by the River; on the W. by the Creek Indians; and on the N. by the Cherokees. It is not divided into counties. Its chief town is Savannah, about 13 miles from the sea, upon the large river of the same name, navigable for boats 200 miles further to the second town Augusta, which stands upon a most fertile spot, and is very commodiously situated for the Indian trade. Between those two places, and on the same river, are the towns of Milledgeville, Milledge, Wilkesboro, and Wilkes. Frederick is built in one of the islands which divide the Eastern coast, and whose numerous channels are very dangerous to the navigation of small vessels. — The River of Georgia (besides the Savannah, already mentioned), are the Little Hogpechee, Great Hogpechee, Altamaha, Great Stilla &c. all navigable for boats a great way in the country.

FLORIDA, DIVIDED INTO EAST AND WEST.

By the Royal Proclamation of 1763, the following boundaries are annexed to those provinces. EAST FLORIDA is bounded to the Westward by the Gulf of Mexico and the Apalachicola River; to the Northward, by a Line drawn from the Mouth of the Apalachicola River to the Mouth of the St. Johns River, and thence by a Line drawn by the Course of the said Rivers to the Mouth of the said St. Johns River; to the Eastward, by the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Florida, including all Islands within six leagues of the sea-coast. St. Augustine, the chief town, is situated upon the Eastern shore, and contains about 600 houses, mostly uninhabited. The River St. John, the principal river, discharges its waters into the Gulf of Florida, and is navigable for small boats for the space of 20 leagues as down, for 200 miles. WEST FLORIDA is bounded to the Southward by the Gulf of Mexico, including all the Islands within six leagues of the coast from the River Apalachicola to Lake Ponchartraine; to the Westward, by the Gulf of Mexico, including all the Islands within six leagues of the coast from Lake Ponchartraine to the Mouth of the River Mississippi which lies in 31 degrees North latitude, to the confluence of the Rivers Flint and Chattahooche into the Apalachicola; and to the Eastward, by the Gulf Apalachicola River. The chief town is Pensacola, built on the West side of the Bay of the same name, and is a fortified town, and the seat of the Spanish Government. To the West of Pensacola is the Bay Mobile, with several French settlements.
