

[illegible]

GOVERNMENT OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

By the Proclamation of the 27th of October, 1763, this government includes, 1. The life of Newfoundland and all the lands adjacent to its coast, except those of Miquelon and St. Peter's, which are left in the possession of the French; 2. The Isles of Anticosti and Mingaudin, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence; 3. All the coast of Labrador, from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Hudson's Strait. The town of St. John is the principal port, and the fisheries on the South-east part of Newfoundland.

CANADA, OR THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

By the Royal Proclamation of the 27th of October, 1763, this province is bounded on the East by the River St. John, and from thence, by a Line drawn from the head of that river, through Lake St. John, to the fourth end of Lake Nipissing; from whence the said Line, crossing the river St. Lawrence, extends to the mouth of the same, and thence, by a Line drawn from the mouth of the said river, through themselves into the said river St. Lawrence, from thence which falls into the sea; and also along the north coast of the Baye des Chaleurs, and the coast of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, to Cape Rovers, and from thence crossing the mouth of the river St. Lawrence, by the Gulf of St. Lawrence, to Anticosti, and thence to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. An Act of Parliament, passed in England in 1774, has removed the northern bounds and western limits of the Province of Quebec, adding to its jurisdiction all the lands comprised between the northern bounds of New-York, the western line of Pennsylvania, the Ohio, the Mississippi, and the fourteen hundred and twenty miles, and the said Act has also enlarged the Province, by adding to its limits, a part of the territory of Hudson's Bay Company, and the said Province is a fortified place, situated at the confluence of the rivers St. Lawrence and St. Charles, and is the capital of the Province; it consists of an Upper and Lower Town, well-built of stone, and contains 12 or 14,000 inhabitants.—Montreal is built on a fine island, in the middle of the river St. Lawrence, and contains 12 or 14,000 inhabitants.—The city of Quebec is situated on the Upper and Lower Town, well-built, and populous. Near Montreal, on the river Richelieu, are two forts, Chilly and St. John, taken by the Provincials.—Two Rivers issue at the confluence of the three rivers to catch, running into St. Lawrence: it is much frequented by the Indians, and is called the Lake. The five principal, which communicate, are Lake Superior, 500 leagues in circuit; the Lakes Ontario, Erie or Oregé, Huron, and Michigan; all navigable by vessels of any size, at all the times of their communications, except between lakes Erie and Ontario, which is a dependency of the former, and there is a communication between the latter and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the form of a half-strait, called the St. Lawrence. The perpendicular height is 148 feet; and the noise may be heard upwards of fifteen miles.—The river Chier is that of St. Lawrence, navigable from the sea to Montreal; it receives the rivers Ottawaui, Richelieu or Sarve, and the Rivers Saguenay, St. Lawrence, Saguenay, and the River Saguenay. Cape Rovers, the most remarkable Cape in the Province of Quebec, and of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

It bounded on the N. by Canada, E. Gulf of St. Lawrence, S. Atlantic Ocean, W. New England. The chief town in Nova-Scotia is Halifax, founded in 1749, by an embarkation of near 4000 families. It is situated on Cobequid Bay, where is one of the finest harbours in the world, — a bay, the shores of which are fringed by French, but received its name in honour of Queen Anne; its harbour, which is as fine as that of Halifax, has the disadvantage of a very difficult entrance—Lunenburg, a small town to the west of Halifax, Canada, another little town to the eastward. Cape Sable, the most southern point of the province, Sable Island, the only one in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Cape Chaleur Bay, —Rivers: Ristigouche, Nepigonick, Minas, St. John's, and river St. Croix, which divides the province from New-England. By the Royal Proclamation of 1763, the titles of Cape Breton and St. John's, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, are annexed to the government of Nova-Scotia. The plenty of fish and fowl, and the richness of the soil, has formed good and fertile harbours, and the country is very fertile; its minerals are very few. St. John's island, which is settled by the English since the peace, has a fruitful soil; its inhabitants are very few; its chief place is Charlotte-town.

[illegible][illegible]

is bounded on the N. by New York. E. Atlantic Ocean. W. and S. by N. Delaware River and Bay.—The counties and towns in the East District are, Middlesex: Perth-Amboy, New Brunswick, Woodbridge;—Marriott's: Freehold;—Monmouth: Middletown, Marlborough, Little Egg Harbor, Tuckerton, Lakewood, Longport, Barnegat, Beach Haven, Hammonton, Bridlington;—Gloster: Gloucester;—Salem: Salem;—Camdenland: Haverhill;—Cape May:—Hammonton: Trenton;—Morris:—Morris-Salem: Perth-Amboy, the provincial town of the East Jersey, is delightfully situated on a peninsula between the two great bays, and is one of the most beautiful spots in America. It is the seat of the Supreme Court of the West Jersey, stands on the Delaware. In their two towns the General Assembly of all the Jerseys sit alternately, and the divided Provincial or Supreme Courts sit respectively.—Brunswick is remarkable for the number of its beautiful islands, and for the fine view it commands of the bay and river. The University of the Holy Trinity was founded here as a college for the instruction of youth, by a charter from Governor Belcher, with power to confer all degrees, as in the Universities of England;—Cape May is the chief Cape, is the entrance of Delaware Bay; Perth-Amboy the chief

A TABLE of the Population of the BRITISH COLONIES in North-America, published in New-Jersey, in November, 1765.

Names of the Colonies.	Men (White and Black) at a Year's Arm.	Number of Individuals.
Canada, and Labrador	57,500	120,000
Nova-Scotia, and Northern Islands	10,000	40,000
New England	51,000	180,000
Massachusetts—by	—	—
New Hampshire—	—	—
Connecticut—	45,000	280,000
Rhode-Island—	1000	60,000
New-York	35,000	100,000
The two Jerseys (East and West), Pennsylvania, with the Lower Counties on Delaware	100,000	400,000
Virginia, with Maryland	180,000	270,000
North-Carolina	39,000	120,000
South-Carolina	57,000	180,000
Georgia, with the Two Floridas	10,000	40,000
Total	600,000	2,400,000

M A R Y L A N D.

It is bounded on the N. by Pennsylvania. E. Counties of Delaware and Atlantic Ocean. S. and W. by the Potomac River, which separates the Province from Virginia.—Its counties and towns are, in the EAST DIVISION: Frederick: Prince George: Somerset: Snowhill: Dorchester: Dorchester: Talbot: Oxford: Cecil: Baltimore: Harford: Washington: St. Mary's: St. Mary's: Annapolis: Prince George's: Charles: Calvert: Albany: Dorchester: St. Mary's: St. Mary's: Frederick: Annapolis, the capital, is a small neat town, of 500 houses; the streets are irregular, and not paved. It is situated on a peninsula formed by the river Potomac, and two creeks, affording a beautiful prospect of Chesapeake Bay, and of the Eastern shore beyond it. The chief rivers, which are the Potomac, Choptank, by including many creeks, which afford the Province great commercial advantages by the convenience of inland navigation.

is bounded on the N. E. by the River Patuxent, dividing it from Maryland. E. Atlantic Ocean. S. North-Williamsville, Prince William, Spotsylvania, Charlotte; Jamez City, chief town, Williamsburg, Henrico, Richmond, Northumberland, Nanjemund, Buckingham, King and Queen, Stafford, Mecklenburg, Loudoun, Lunetta, Dinwiddie, Funderburk, Middleburg Northampton, Hampshire, King George, Fairfax, Gloucester, Cumberland, Brunswick, Fauquier, George, Gloucester, Prince Ann, Warwick, Albemarle, Caroline, New Kent, Southampton, Loudonburg, Culpeper, King William, Henric, Staffs; Norfolk, chief town, Norfolk, now in Essex; Elizabeth, chief town, Elizabeth other into York River, contains 200 houses. Here is a college, towards which King William and Queen Mary were 2000, and 2000 acres of land, with a duty of 1d. per pound on all tobacco exported to the other plantations.—The land in the world, being 18 miles broad at its mouth, and 7 or 8 throughout a length of 100 miles.
N. on the upper country.—The chief towns are, James, York or Pamunky, Rappahannock, and Patowmack; they not only are yet navigable rivers, but Virginia is very fertile, and abundant with many crops, and receive fish a multitude of fish; indeed, it has been observed, and with reason, that every planter here has a river at his door.

[illegible]

is bounded on the E. and S. by the Savannah River, which divides it from South Carolina and by the Atlantic on the S. by St. Mary's River on the W. by the Creek Indians; and on the N. by the Cherokees. It is not yet divided into counties. Its chief town is Savannah, about 12 miles from the sea, upon the large river of the same name, navigable for boats 200 miles further to the second town Augusta, which stands upon a most fertile spot, and is the chief port for the Indian trade. Between those two places, and on the same river, are the towns of New Georgia, Ebenezer, and Abbeville. The latter is the largest, and the most fertile, which divide the Eastern coast and whose numerous channels are very favourable to the navigation of small vessels. — The River of Georgia (besides the Savannah, already mentioned) are, the Little Hogchoke, Great Hogchoke, Altamaha, Great Stillacree, &c. all navigable for boats a great way in the country.

[illegible]